Dost (दोस्त) - This is the general term for a friend, someone with whom you share a close bond and trust.

Yaari (यारी) or Yaar (यार) - This term refers to a deep, lasting friendship or camaraderie between two people. It often signifies a friendship that has withstood the test of time and adversity.

Sakha (सखा) or Sakhee (सखी) - These words, derived from Sanskrit, denote a very close and intimate friend, almost like a companion or confidante.

Mithra (मित्र) - Another Sanskrit-derived word, Mithra means a true and loyal friend, someone who is like-minded and supportive.

Saathi (साथी) - This word literally means a companion or partner, but it is also used to refer to a close friend who accompanies and supports you through life's journey.

Ghanaghis Dost (घनाघिस दोस्त) - This phrase signifies a very thick or inseparable friend, someone who is like family and with whom you share an extremely close bond.

Janam-janam ka Dost (जनम-जनम का दोस्त) - This term is used to describe a friend who is believed to be a companion from previous lives, implying a deep, spiritual connection.

Baghbaan (बाग़बान) - While not a direct term for friendship, this word refers to a close friend who acts as a confidante and provides support during difficult times, like a gardener tending to a garden.

These are just a few examples, and there are many other regional and colloquial terms used to describe different shades and depths of friendship in Hindi. The language is rich in its expressions of human relationships and bonds.
